

National Programmes Lead

- Education/Youth Development Expertise
- Management and Leadership Essential
- Flexible, values based, supportive work environment

Mō mātou | About Us

The Graeme Dingle Foundation changes the lives of tamariki and rangatahi, providing the opportunity to realise potential through building self-confidence and learning valuable life skills via participation in our unique youth development programmes such as Project K, Kiwi Can Career Navigator and Stars. Across Aotearoa our programmes are delivered in schools, kura and communities through our network of community partners.

Mō tēnei tūranga mahi | About this role

In this exciting and innovative role, you will lead a team of trainers and programme developers working closely with our community partners, as well as the schools, communities and the wider education and youth development sector.

The team develop programmes and training to our community partners across Aotearoa, ensuring exceptional quality, continuous improvement and innovation, ensuring our work is connected into the latest thinking and research.

Ko wai koe | About you

With your background in education or youth development you will have immediate credibility with your stakeholders, as well as a demonstrated passion for our kaupapa. Management experience leading and coaching a small team is essential, as are excellent relationship building skills externally and internally. Cultural capability in te ao Māori and an understanding of how to develop programmes in partnership with Māori would be a distinct advantage. A fast, action oriented and can-do attitude is essential, as is a strong sense of personal responsibility. You have a radar for opportunity and embrace lateral thinking, working through influence and finding ways to get better every day.

We offer flexible working options, a strong support team and professional development, as well as the opportunity to know your work makes a real difference.
